MATTHEW 5:13 · KEEP YOUR SAVOUR

VXIII BRAND STORY

1. THE NAME

VXIII is one word and one reference, Matthew 5:13. It is always written and read together, with no space and no mark between the letters. Behind the word, the V stands for the chapter and the XIII for the verse, so a single word carries the whole citation.

The verse opens with the line "Ye are the salt of the earth" (KJV). It goes on to say that salt which loses its savour has nothing left to give. We take that sentence as the premise of the brand: a person is worth what they keep of themselves.

The next verse, 5:14, says "Ye are the light of the world." VXIII sits one verse before the light. The wearer is the salt, and the frame is what they put on before they walk out into it.

2. THE IDEA IN ONE LINE

Keep your savour.

3. WHY SALT, AND WHY SUNGLASSES

Salt and sunglasses share more ground than it first seems.

Salt is made by the sun. Sea water is left in shallow pans under hard light until only crystal remains. The thing we build to face is the thing that makes salt. The sun is the maker, and the frame is how the wearer meets it.

Salt preserves. In the old world a covenant was sealed with salt because nothing else would last as long. A frame bought once and kept for years follows the same logic, and our promise to the buyer is written as a covenant.

Salt works quietly. Nobody sees salt in a meal, and people notice only when it is missing. VXIII is worn the same way, with the mark placed where only the wearer sees it, and a frame is judged by how little it announces.

Salt has a measure. The word salary comes from the salt that Roman soldiers were paid, and the phrase "worth your salt" still means someone has earned their place. We speak to people who intend to be worth it.

4. WHO WE SPEAK TO

We speak to people who buy few things and keep them. They value a good material, a clean line and a quiet detail, and they do not need an object to announce them.

They arrive through a friend, through the verse, or through the frame itself. Most already own sunglasses that they have lost or outgrown and want one pair that stays. We write for them as equals, with the plain confidence of someone who has nothing to prove.

5. PERSONALITY

TRAIT	SOUNDS LIKE	AVOIDS
Assured	Short sentences that state a fact and stop.	Hedging, superlatives and apology.
Plain	Ordinary words, used exactly.	Jargon, slang and borrowed luxury vocabulary.
Patient	Room around each statement.	Urgency, countdowns and pressure.
Exact	Numbers, materials and names given in full.	Vague claims about quality.

6. THE STORY

There is a verse that most people know by its first line and forget by its second. You are the salt of the earth. The second line is the one that matters. If the salt has lost its savour, what is left to season anything with?

We built VXIII on the second line.

Salt does not decorate. It is added to something so that the thing becomes more itself. A good cook uses very little and the whole dish changes. A frame can do the same for a face. It carries no slogan across the lens and it sits close to the skin. It is made of titanium, a metal that is slow to mark, and it is cut with the clean, hard edge of a crystal.

Salt is born in the sun, and that is the right place to begin a pair of sunglasses. The light is strongest at the hour when the pans are drying, and that is the hour this brand is made for.

We number the verse and not a product line, because the reference is the promise. VXIII is read as one word. Anyone who knows the verse will recognise it. Anyone who does not will ask, and the answer is a good one to be asked for.

You are the salt of the earth. Keep your savour. Put the frame on and go out into the light.

7. MANIFESTO

You are the salt of the earth.

You were not made to be loud. You were made to change the thing you are added to.

The sun made the first crystal and it will test you too. Meet it with something that holds its edge.

Keep your savour.

VXIII. Matthew 5:13.

8. BRAND PILLARS

PILLAR	MEANING	WHERE IT SHOWS
Savour	Keeping what is yours	The tagline and the tone of every line of copy

PILLAR	MEANING	WHERE IT SHOWS
Crystal	Hard edges and clean cuts, with a cube as the base form	Temple tip, hinge block and packaging geometry
Covenant	A promise made in writing	Warranty, returns and care text
Quiet	Marks placed where only the wearer sees them	Engraving inside the temple

9. VOICE

- Plain declarative sentences, with one idea in each.
- Scripture appears at the name, in the manifesto and in the engraving. Everywhere else the voice is modern and direct.
- Salt words are used as ordinary vocabulary and are never forced into a pun.
- No exclamation marks, no emoji and no discount language.
- Short captions in capitals, as on the spec lines of a product page.

Vocabulary

WE SAY	WE DO NOT SAY
Savour	Style, vibe
Crystal, cut, edge	Sleek, modern
Keep	Own, buy
Season	Collection, drop
Covenant	Terms and conditions
Grain	Detail
Pan	Workshop, studio

Lines we use

- Keep your savour.
- Worth your salt.
- Made where the sun makes salt.
- You are the salt of the earth. Put it on.
- One verse before the light.

10. THE TWO MODELS

MODEL	WEARER	SHAPE	MATERIAL
Navigator	Men	The classic navigator shape, a straight top bar over a rounded lower lens	Titanium
Butterfly	Women	A wide butterfly shape with the outer corners lifted	Titanium

Every frame is titanium, for men and for women.

11. COLOURWAYS

Colourways take their names from salts and from the stages of making them. Each name describes a finish and a lens together. Colour is applied to the titanium by anodising or by PVD coating where the finish requires it.

NAME	SALT REFERENCE	FINISH AND LENS
Fleur	Fleur de sel, the first and finest crystals off the pan	Polished silver titanium, clear grey lens
Gris	Sel gris, grey salt raked from the clay	Brushed gunmetal titanium, smoke lens
Noir	Black lava salt	Matte black titanium, deep grey lens
Rose	Rose rock salt	Rose gold titanium, soft amber lens
Ambre	Smoked salt	Warm gold titanium, amber lens

The final selection for each model is set in the product range document.

12. SIGNATURE DETAILS

1. The cube. Halite crystallises as a cube, so the temple tip, the hinge block and the end piece are cut as small cubes with true edges.
2. The engraving. "VXIII", written as one word with no dots or spaces, and a short line from the verse, set on the inner face of the temple.
3. The grain texture. A fine matte finish on the temple, set against polished rims.

13. MESSAGING
